DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because the word "disclosed", on line 2, should be removed. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-6, 9-12 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ehrhart et al. (US 6,722,569; hereinafter "Ehrhart").

Re claims 1-2, 4, 6, 9-12 and 15: Ehrhart teaches a portable handheld data terminal (10 in figs. 1A-1D) comprising a top portion (i.e., the front portion, which includes keypad, display, etc);

a bottom portion attached to the top portion (i.e., the rear portion), the bottom portion comprising a handle with a stylus compartment therein (see fig. 1C); and a stylus (18 in fig. 1C) of the portable terminal housed within the stylus compartment (col. 5, line 51 through col. 6, line 58).

Re claims 3 and 9: Ehrhart teaches the portable handheld data terminal (10) further comprising an RS-232 or USB link to communicate with a host computer via a LAN/WAN (col. 15, lines 22-30; col. 15, lines 51-67).

Art Unit: 2876

Re claim 5: Ehrhart teaches the portable handheld data terminal (10) further comprising a barcode reader (col. 7, lines 29-31; col. 8, lines 25-34).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 7-8, 13-14 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ehrhart in view of Liu et al (US 6,410,865; hereinafter "Liu"). The teachings of Ehrhart have been discussed above.

Ehrhart fails to teach or fairly suggest a lock component that engages the stylus in the stylus compartment.

Liu teaches a handheld computer such as a personal digital assistant (PDA) having a lock component (locking apparatus 10) that engages the stylus (100) in the stylus compartment (slide groove 116) (col. 2, lines 10-40); wherein the locking apparatus includes a lock spring (106; col. 2, lines 25-29) as set forth in claim 8.

It would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the locking apparatus that engages the stylus in the stylus compartment as taught by Liu to the teachings of Ehrhart in order to provide locking/holding component to hold the stylus in place while the handheld computer is transported (i.e., the stylus will remain within the holding compartment during the motion of the handheld computer).

Conclusion

Examiner's note: Examiner has cited particular columns and line numbers in the references as applied to the claims above for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings of the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant in preparing responses, to fully consider the references in entirety as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior art or disclosed by the examiner.

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Murphy (US 6,068,307) teaches a closure system useful for securing a device having a stylus. Immler et al (US 4,538,072) teaches an optical wand for automatic character recognition including a scanner unit designed to be a manually movable along a line of print of a data carrier in order to recognize optical characters and incorporating a light source for illuminating a scanning window and a sensing device.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Kimberly D. Nguyen whose telephone number is 571-272-2402. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday 7:30-4:30.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Michael G. Lee can be reached on 571-272-2398. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 703-872-9306.
